HOMICIDAL LUNACY.

Some extraordinary statements were lately made by Dr. Forbes Winslow of London, in an interview at New York. The doctor is a distinguished specialist in mental disorders and founder of a British hospital devoted to diseases of this order. His visit to the United States was in obedience to a call to preside over the department of insanity and mental medicine at the Medico-Legal Congress held in New York.
He read a paper before that body on "Suicide as an Epidemic," which he had prepared after an investigation of the immense number of suicides that followed the epidemic of influenza in London last year. In the interview he said he should rather have spoken on "The Plea of Insanity in Criminal Cases," as that was the branch of work with which his career had been particularly identified. For years past he had testified in a great number of cases, and in only one instance had he failed to establish the lunacy of the prisoner under trial.

There is a grave lesson in the following extract from the interview, regarding certain kinds of literature that boys are allowed to feed upon without restriction.
It gives added point to the observation made in the BULLETIN the other day, that the Durrant trial in San Francisco ought to be guaranteed:

Not only are most murderers homicidal lunatics, but homicidal lunacy in London is increasing very rapidly among the young men between sixteen and twenty-five years old. I think the increase comes chiefly from the force of imitation. These boys read about men who have committed murders; their minds become filled with the stories of them; the pulpit does all that it can to make the situation worse by preaching about these men, and this combination has its effects on their youthful minds.

They want to do something of the same kind themselves to attract the same attention to them, and I am certain it is this motive which is the strongest now in the increase of the number of young men in London who are tried for murder.
But they are homicidal lunatics just the same, even if it be only this of imitation which inspires them. They are not responsible; their brains are affected.

Dr. Winslow is of opinion that homicidal lunacy, unlike suicidal lunacy is curable. At the same time it is not safe to allow the homicidal lunatic to be at large. "Of all the men that are saved from the gallows in England by establishing the lunacy," he says, "not one has ever been set free. They are all sent to the Broadmoor prison, the prison for the criminal insane." In this connection it is safe to say that the female kahuna, who was the principal in the Lanai horror, was certainly insane and Oahu prison, with its mild regimen, is the best place for all such homicidal lunatics who wear the semblance of rational persons. But when their terms expire they ought at least to be well watched, if there is not expert evidence for them to commit them to the Insane Asylum.

Dr. Winslow attributes klep-tomania, or the mania for stealing, to the force of imitation, just as the homicidal mania. It is much easier to get a poor man off on the plea of kleptomania than a rich man because in the case of a man of means his acquittal arouses the cry of "one law for the rich and another for the poor." Nevertheless the doctor asserts that the disease is liable to attack rich as well as poor. He expresses himself as radically opposed to capital punishment, citing its abolition in Belgium as having been followed by a decrease of murder.

Some interesting statements were made by Dr. Winslow with regard to two cases of world-wide notoriety. One of these is that of Mrs. Maybrick, the American lady enduring penal servitude in England for poisoning her husband. He believed she would be out of prison in six months.
He handed up the petitions to the Home Office for her release, and "it was Mr. Matthew's refusal to pardon her which cost him his place under the present Government." Dr. Winslow had found that Maybrick had taken arsenic two days before he died, which had been prescribed by his physician. The other case is that of "Jack the Ripper." This once mysterious slayer of women of the street is now incarcerated in a country lunatic asylum in England. He was a medical student of good family, and hard study made him insane. He became a religious enthusiast, attending early morning services at St. Paul's, and his religious fervor resulted in homicidal mania. The frequent terrible murders, with mutilation of the victims, committed by him horrified the world. When Dr. Winslow notified the Scotland Yard authorities of his discoveries of evidence indicating the perpetrator of these horrors, they at first refused to co-operate with him.
Subsequently the young man was placed in confinement and removed to an asylum, and since his incarceration there has been no repetition of the shocking murders perpetrated. These facts are well known to the English authorities, but it was deemed desirable to hush the matter up. "The details were too horrible to be made the subject of a public trial, and there was no doubt of the man's hopeless insanity."

OBSERVATIONS.

They are good people who have protested in these columns against the dumping of harbor dredgings under the noses of the Lolo residents. Their name will be legion after the operations have begun.

A prominent Government official said yesterday that the Government had information that 700 armed men stood ready to assist the filibusters as soon as they set foot in Honolulu. Could it be possible he was thinking of the Citizens' Guard?

Two rival railroads between London and Aberdeen have lately been indulging in train racing.
The London & North-western's fast train did 540 miles in 538 minutes on some parts of the road having covered seventy-five miles an hour. This is the fastest railroad record.

If the modern doctrine that penal laws are designed for the prevention of crime rather than for its expiation by vengeful punishment is all wrong, then it may not be easy to respond to the Advertiser's challenge to exhibit the principle on which the effort to bring about the release of the remaining political prisoners on Thanksgiving day is based.

Timely Topics

Judge Ogden of Oakland recently gave a young married woman some good advice when he refused to grant her a divorce. The couple had been married three years and were quite young, but they evidently got along about as well as most married people do. However, the young woman thought she ought to have a divorce and filed a complaint against her husband alleging cruelty.
The specific facts set forth were that her husband frequently slapped her, whether playfully or not the complaint does not state, and that once he spoke crossly to her. This, however, was while the husband was putting up a stove, and therefore cannot be wondered at. On another occasion the young wife says her husband threatened her, but in answer to the Judge she explained he had only told her the proper thing to bring her under subjection would be to raise a family. But this poor husband's greatest offense lay in his feet. He had big ones according to his wife, and on one occasion he had the audacity to place them in her lap, and she said, "he had his boots off."

In refusing to grant a divorce on such trivial testimony Judge Ogden gave the wife a little fatherly lecture. "You can hardly expect the court to grant you a divorce upon such testimony. If we were to grant you a divorce upon that showing there would not be a couple in Oakland that would not be entitled to a divorce. It is impossible to find human nature that is ideally perfect.
There are many little imperfections that education and association will smooth off, and married people must exercise forbearance and patience. Instead of widening the breach close it up. A young couple such as you are will find married life a very happy existence if you will return to your home and not do just what you have been doing heretofore."

That Oakland Judge had some sense, indeed it is apparent that his wisdom arose from experience. It is a pity there are not more like him. If there were there would be fewer divorces and more happy homes. What is home without a mother-in-law and the privilege of putting your feet on your wife's lap without putting your boots on first.

All of which reminds us of another little story. By the steamer Australia we have received one of the largest consignments of hardware ever landed on these fly specks of the Pacific. It comprises an assortment of plated ware, ideal coffee pots, three and five-thousand gallon tanks, steel wire cloth, flour sifters, blacksmith's bellows, wire mats, cutlery, feather dusters, hoe handles, California lawn sprinklers, lanterns, shovels, rice pows, bath tub enamel, Disston's No. 2 cane knives, mill saw files, sole leather and assorted goods such as varnishes, patent water closets, paint burners, Hendry's mixed paints, hose in all sizes and qualities, metallic paint in oil and shooting coats.

We have also received a fresh shipment of "Tribune" and "Monarch" bicycles, with lamps and fittings of all kinds.
All of the above goods are on the wharf and may be shipped to any port of the islands.

$50 PRIZE.

The Joint Committee appointed to report upon designs for a Great Seal and Department Seal, invites suggestions for a design for a Great Seal of the Republic, and offers a prize of Fifty Dollars to be paid to the person whose design is accepted by the Legislature.

It is the opinion of the Committee that the seal should be about three inches in diameter and that the present motto, "E Pluribus Unum," be retained.

Competitors are requested to sign a non-de-plume to their designs, and write their real names on a separate paper, enclosing the seal in a sealed envelope addressed to the Secretary of the Committee and marked "Design for Great Seal."

The competition will close on the 1st day of December, 1895.
